Dear Pat:

This is to thank you again and more formally for everything you did to make our stay in [ ] so pleasant. The two lovely dinners in your home were especially noteworthy, to include the opportunity to meet many mutual friends.

I am most sorry that [ ] kept me so heavily involved during the period I was supposed to be having cocktails at the Club!! I am fearful that I won no friends and probably disinfluenced a number of people by showing up so late -- however, I suppose that is one of the hazards of the game.

We have had a marvelous trip and in spite of the enchanting delights of the Far East, I am delighted to be back with my bride.

With my thanks again and warm regards to [ ] and you.

Faithfully yours,

M/ Pat
